DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

1. This communication is in response to amendment filed on 4/18/2005. Applicant added new claim 26. Claims 1-26 are pending.

Specification

2. The objection to the disclosure is overcome and therefore the objection is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gish (U.S. Patent No. 5,768,510).

Gish teaches the invention as claimed including a method, a system and an article of manufacture for use in a client/server system of reducing interactions between a client and server in association with an application being accessed by the client at the server (see Gish, Abstract and column 5 lines 20-50).

5. In reference to claims 1,13,25 and 26, Gish teaches the above method, system and article of manufacture comprising the steps of:

Configuring the server to store a model associated with the application and to maintain view-generating and controller logic associated with the application (column 16 lines 19-67, column 18 lines 10-35, column 18 line 60 – column 19 line 20 and column 20 lines 40-60)

Configuring the client to store at least a subset of the model associated with the application and to maintain at least a subset of the view-generating and controller logic associated with the application, wherein one or more portions of the application are performed at the client without the client having to interact with the server (column 18 lines 10-45 and column 21 lines 10-55).

6. In reference to claim 2 and 14, Gish teaches the method and system of claims 1 and 13 respectively wherein the client and server communicate over a HyperText Transport Protocol network (column 14 lines 43-67 and column 16 lines 19-40).

7. In reference to claim 3 and 15, Gish teaches the method of claim 1 and 13 respectively wherein the client performs the one or more portions of the application in accordance with browser software running thereon (column 16 lines 19-40 and column 17 lines 1-37).

8. In reference to claim 4 and 16, Gish teaches the method and system of claim 3 and 15 respectively wherein the configuring step further comprises the step of partitioning a screen area associated with the browser software into frames (column 35 lines 25-50).

9. In reference to claim 5 and 17, Gish teaches the method and system of claim 4 and 16 above, wherein the at least a subset of the model, the view-generating and the controller logic associated with the application are associated with at least one frame and one or more views for display in accordance with the application are associated with at least another frame (column 35 lines 25-50 and column 37 line 55 – column 38 line 40).

10. In reference to claim 6 and 18, Gish teaches the method and system of claim 5 and 17 above wherein the at least one view frame is a visible frame (column 2 line 60 – column 3 line 45 and column 35 lines 25-50).

11. In reference to claim 7 and 19, Gish in view of Doyle teach the method and system of claim 5 and 17 above, wherein the at least one frame associated with the at least a subset of the model, the view-generating logic and the controller logic is not a visible frame (column 2 line 60 – column 3 line 45, column 35 lines 25-50 and column 45 line 55 – column 46 line 15).

12. In reference to claim 8 and 20, Doyle teaches the method and system of claim 4 and 16 respectively wherein the configuring step further comprises forming at least one frame with which application-independent view-generating logic and controller logic is associated (column 2 line 60 – column 3 line 45, column 35 lines 25-50 and column 45 line 55 – column 46 line 15).

13. In reference to claim 9 and 21, Doyle teaches the method and system of claim 8 and 20 respectively wherein the at least one application-independent view-generating logic and controller logic frame further has an application-independent model associated therewith (column 21 lines 10-60 and column 24 lines 5-30).

14. In reference to claim 10 and 22, Doyle teaches the method of claim 8 and 20, wherein the at least one application-independent view-generating logic and controller logic frame serves as an application programming interface for developing views to be displayed in accordance with the application (column 21 lines 10-60 and column 24 lines 5-30).

15. In reference to claim 11 and 23, Gish in view of Doyle teach the method and system of claim 10 and 22 above wherein the views are implemented in accordance with the HyperText Markup Language and the application programming interface is implemented in accordance with the JavaScript language (column 10 lines 10-25, column 15 lines 1-55 and column 16 lines 19-33).

16. In reference to claim 12 and 24, Doyle teaches the method and system of claim 1 and 13 respectively, wherein the at least a subset of the model, the view-generating and the controller logic associated with the application are downloaded from the server to the client upon demand (Summary and column 18 lines 14-67).
